About SAMVAD

SAMVAD (Support, Advocacy & Mental health interventions for children in Vulnerable circumstances And Distress) is a National Initiative & Integrated Resource for Child Protection, Mental Health and Psychosocial Care. SAMVAD was initiated in July 2020, under the aegis of the Ministry of Women & Child Development, Government of India. It is located in the Department of Child & Adolescent Psychiatry, NIMHANS, Bangalore.

SAMVAD's aim is to enhance child and adolescent psychosocial well-being, particularly of children in difficult circumstances, through promotion of integrated approaches to mental health and protection. Children who come in contact with the child protection system, either as a child in conflict with law or as a child in need of care and protection, are very often found to be in need of mental health support in addition to the social, legal and/or educational supports they may need.

Rationale for the Development of SAMVAD Sampark Setu

Awareness about mental health in the country remains low. The problem is particularly severe when it comes to mental health issues affecting children and adolescents. A wide range of emotional, behavioural, learning and intellectual disabilities amongst children remain unidentified, undiagnosed and untreated. Amongst others, there is the gap within the mental healthcare system, of lack of information on child mental health services. In other words, even where families and communities are aware of emotional, behavioural and learning difficulties that their children may be experiencing, they often do not know that help is available, or where such help may be sought.

Moreover, this becomes even more severe for children who experience adverse childhood circumstances and enter the child protection systems – either as children in need of care and protection (CNCP) or children in conflict with law (CICL), in such cases most Child Welfare Committees (CWC) and Juvenile Justice Boards (JJB) struggle to find qualified professionals within or around the limits of their jurisdiction. As SAMVAD's training and capacity building initiatives intensify around the country, the request for mental health professionals to refer children in need also grows, in particular for children with severe and acute mental health conditions.

In light of all the above, the Hon'ble Minister of Women and Child Development (MoWCD), Ms Smriti Zubin Irani MoWCD, given her deep commitment to responding to child and adolescent mental healthcare in the country, commissioned the creation of a child mental health resource resource. This child mental health service resource has thus been created with the support of the Ministry of Women and Child Development, Government of India, in furtherance of its child mental health and protection mandate.

In the light of the above, SAMVAD was requested to curate a resource of mental health facilities/ services across the country. The Ministry views the availability of such an exhaustive resource of mental health services as being extremely beneficial in connecting different functionaries working with children to connect them to adequate resources anywhere across the country.

SAMVAD obtained details of several government-run district and state level mental health facilities i.e. psychiatric services at secondary and tertiary levels of care, over a period of months, namely:

- District and General hospitals
- State run Mental health hospitals
- Tertiary level health facilities
- Centres for Excellence
- Government Medical Colleges
- Any other program/facility being run for children at the state or district level

Objectives of SAMVAD Sampark Setu

- To ensure a comprehensive and updated resource and database on child mental health, on national, state and district levels.
- To make mental health services accessible to children and adolescents in need, particularly those in adversity, to enable treatment and rehabilitation.
- To build convergence between the mental health services and other duty-bearers, such as functionaries in child protection, education, police, and judiciary.
- To connect child care workers of various cadres with mental health services, in the wake of SAMVAD's training and capacity building initiatives and tele-mentoring services, for, these have led to increasing identification of mental health issues in different spaces that children inhabit.

How SAMVAD Sampark Setu was developed

In order to collect information nation-wide, on available state-run mental health services, the SAMVAD team engaged in the process as outlined below:

- The internet served as a primary source for information and a search was run for the contacts of the above-mentioned types of mental health facilities/services.
- For each state, the District Mental Health Program contacts were procured. The names of the hospitals for each of the districts where DMHP is functional in the State were collated from the website of these hospitals.
- A district wise list of General/ District Hospitals was also collated from the internet through various sources like the State Government Website, the websites of the hospitals etc.
- SAMVAD staff and resource persons made multiple rounds of calls to the contact details provided/obtained from DMHPs and/or internet sources and enter the information received, from persons working in the mental health facility into the resource.
- In several states, the Nodal Officers of the National Mental Health Programme and the Departments of Health and Family Welfare were also contacted through emails to procure the State-wise list of mental health facilities.

These DMHPs also include the ones with whom SAMVAD is engaged in training and capacity building activities.

Additional Notes:

- SAMVAD Sampark Setu is an initial effort to assist child duty bearers across the country to effectively connect children with mental health needs to appropriate Government services across the country. SAMVAD will routinely update this resource, as more rounds of enquiry and research are conducted for this information.

- Many facilities were difficult to reach as their contact details were neither available on the internet or through SAMVAD's mental health networks, Many institutions either did not have a website or had outdated/inaccurate information, which was the primary source of our contacts. The COVID pandemic has also caused many mental health facilities and hospitals were converted into COVID treatment facilities. Consequently, many mental health staff were assigned covid duties, making them difficult to reach for information regarding their mental health services. Given these challenges, SAMVAD does not consider this resource an exhaustive list of child mental health services—and therefore, will continue to contact mental health facilities for updating of this resource book, as more information is received.
- Private mental health facilities are not listed in the resource for the very reason that there is no systematic manner of evaluating and assessing the quality and nature of the services they provide. The DMHPs included in this resource are also, the ones with whom SAMVAD is engaged in training and capacity building activities.

How to use SAMVAD Sampark Setu

The information collected from each mental health facility is organized alphabetically, both state and district-wise, as follows:

- Name of the Facility
- District/ Location
- Contact details of the facility (phone numbers)
- Types of child mental health services provided
- Working hours/OPD timings
- Disability Certification provision and details
- Specific Learning Disability certification provision and details
- Fee structure

Who can use SAMVAD Sampark Setu

This resource is for use by parents, caregivers and families, as well as the many stakeholders and service providers working in the domains of child health, protection and education such as primary healthcare providers, juvenile justice boards (JJBs) and the child welfare committees (CWCs), counsellors, teachers, special educators, police and judicial officers to name a few. The resource is also for use by secondary and tertiary mental health services themselves, so that they may make the requisite linkages to assist children and families in more effective ways i.e. based on children's geographic locations and service needs.

For more information or assistance, and if you wish to share information on state-run child mental health services in any part of the country, kindly write to us on info@nimhanschilprotect.in

We hope this Resource will help all those who care about children & adolescents and their mental health to reach out to the right services that children need and support them in helping them leading a safe and emotionally healthy lives.

- Team SAMVAD

A faint, artistic illustration in the background shows the silhouettes of several children playing on a bridge. They are in various active poses, some with arms raised, suggesting a joyful and safe environment. The bridge has a simple railing, and the overall scene is set against a soft, light-colored background.
